healings and miracles

Amber is holding a baby girl, Hulda Boureïma, who is the daughter of the pastor of the church in Tillabéri. Her father called Shelley and asked that I come to Tillabéri because his child had passed away with meningitis. Shelley mobilized everyone she could to pray as I drove with another pastor one hour to Tillabéri. I found the family at the hospital office and I was told that 30 minutes before my arrival the child had suddenly come back to life. Not only was she raised from the dead but she was completely healed of the meningitis.

Ishaya Issoufou fell into a coma two weeks ago after suffering for a week with malaria. We arrived at the hospital to pray for the boy with the others that were already there. The Lord completely healed him.

construction teams

We thank the Lord for the Hands and Hearts for Africa team from Christian Center in Mechanicsville Virginia. They partnered with us to build a church in Niamey as well as launch a humanitarian project up the Niger river in the Tillabéri region.

We hosted a team from Oklahoma led by Charity Harris during the month of June. They erected four tabernacles. Two of the tabernacles were used to expand the Kouara Kano church.

Dewayne Holden and Charlie Brown, missionary associates to Niger, assisted the team.

Thank you Rock Canyon Assembly of God in Provo, Utah for the instruments that you gave to the National Youth department. The youth band "Shalom" blessed our camps this year.

We appreciate those who provided Betty Lukens flannel graph sets and puppets for the childrens' ministry in Niger.

Praise the Lord for 150 kids who attended camp.

Shelley directed kid's camp for the western district of Niger in July. The Lord blessed the camp. Many children were saved, healed, and baptized in the Holy Spirit. The emphasis this year was walking in the Spirit.

Many of the children that spent the week with us at camp come from Muslim homes. It is a miracle for them to get permission from their fathers to attend camp for a week.

We thank all of our supporters who make it possible for us to sponsor childrens' programs throughout the year.
